IRIS

SUPPLEMENT
1927

SAM BURCHFIELD
IRISARIAN

NOTICE

In presenting this, my 1927 revision, I have added a few Huron Valley introductions, all of which are well worth while. I have spent a great deal of time trying to improve the dwarfs and offer a very fine collection.

Orders are prepaid to all points in the United States. With a few exceptions, no goods will be shipped until after the blooming season in our section, about July 1st. I have found that best results are obtained by July planting except the Regalio-Cyclus Hybrids, which should be planted about September 1st.

Orders are accepted on the condition that the particular species or variety are not oversold and that there is no failure of stock through causes beyond my control.

Stock priced at 35 cents each, additional plants will be supplied at 20 cents each; 50 cents each, additional roots 35 cents each; 75 cents each, additional roots at 50 cents each.

I earnestly request and urge all iris lovers to join the American Iris society. A large and active membership will encourage the improvement of the most wonderful of flowering plants. There are now available twenty-one valuable bulletins. Annual dues are $3.00 payable to Arthur Scott, Front and Market St., Chester, Pa.

You are a welcome visitor to the Huron Valley Iris Garden during the flowering season.

HYACINTHIANA

I can offer for spring delivery plants of the wonderful Hyacinthiana.

Hyacinthiana was discovered by the late Reginald Farrar and numbered 496. It belongs to the Ensata group and grows abundantly all over the loess lands of Kansu, China.

The dark green foliage tops the flowers, which are blue and white, two to the stem. The foliage continues to grow until August, when it is fountain-like, similar to an ornamental Japanese grass. This plant would be very desirable if it never flowered, but it throws up abundant stems and is a sure bloomer. Very hardy. Requires a poor dry soil to do its best.

I am offering three-year-old plants, $4.00 per dozen. Six plants at the dozen price.

1926 DISCARDS

The following list will no longer be offered, for the reason that they are not sufficiently attractive or pleasing. Similar varieties are much better or they have some serious fault (personal opinion). Additions will be made to this list each season until all undesirables are weeded out.

TALL-BEARDED IRIS

HURON VALLEY INTRODUCTIONS

A. Muehlig, H. V., 1926
Ambassaduer type. A taller and richer colored flower; very strong stems (stock limited)	2.50
Gahndi H. V., 1923
30-inch; very late; S. Dart, blue gray; F. Rich, velvety purple; Styles, lavender gray	2.00
Gray Voile H. V., 1923
22-inch; ash gray self; a good garden variety	1.00
Guileless H. V., 1923
30-inch; This makes a fine garden clump. Its brilliance is due to the heavy orange beard; the petals are a creamy pastel	1.00
Harvestone H. V., 1923
30-inch; S., buff and yellow; F., pink and buff, shading to yellow at edge..	1.00
Huron Wile H. V., 1923
28-inch. One of the finest Amoenas in cultivation; S., pure white; F., Blade, velvety blue black, Haft, white; veined lengthwise with black; medium-sized flowers; very free	1.00
Joshua H. V., 1923
24-inch; early. This iris is in a class by itself and will be a favorite. S., clear red black; F., red black with no veining. The feature is the red black beard, same color as petals; a beautiful iris	5.00
Lady Lillian H. V., 1923
38-inch. As near the coveted pink as any iris I have seen; all petals about the shade of the Carolin Testout rose, which is a lavender pink	5.00
Lorna Doone H. V., 1923
30-inch. Of all the plicatas, this iris stands distinctive and has a charm denied others. The petal reminds one of the American Pillar rose; white center with wide pink margin.....	5.00
Maid Huron H. V., 1923
One of the best of its color. S., old rose; F., rich velvety dark crimson, blended with old rose	1.00
Meadow Lark H. V., 1923
30-inch. I like these blends very much. This Harvestone, I believe, will rate high in its class. (Class) "Ochracea Coerulea," "Rachel Fox," etc. Blue and buff blend	1.00
Milleress H. V., 1926
28-inch. Light silvery blue self, lighter than Silver Mist (Dykes) and a better plant in every way (about the same height); sometimes the flowers are shaped like a tulip. (Stock limited)	2.50
Obediah H. V., 1926
Khamsin type; very brilliant old rose, yellow and brownish red in combination; a fine garden clump	2.50

Redwing H. V., 1926

30-inch. This I believe to be the finest red toned iris. S., dark lavender overlaid bronze; F., velvety, flaring, very rich red, beard orange. (Stock limited) 5.00

Winona H. V., 1923

36-inch. This is a pink iris of great beauty; foliage, heavy blue green.... 1.00

DWARFS

I am offering a very fine collection of dwarf bearded iris. The dwarfs are becoming very popular, as they are a great asset to any garden. They have their blooming season the last of April and early in May.

Those offered in this list are not all worth while, but most of them are.

Margauret and Coerulea are the best of the very light blues (nearly white).

Marocain (not so dwarf as some), 9-inch, is a most beautiful dark blue.

Niobe is one of the best very dwarf dark blues.

Quaint, a Huron Valley introduction, is one of the most beautiful iris ever raised. It is of Squalens type. (Stock limited.)

Endymion is the best of the dark ruby-colored dwarfs.

AUGUST FLOWERING

Dichotoma Pardanthopsis

Only one known species belongs to this section. This iris is very similar in habit, but unlike in coloring, to the following (Blackberry Iris). S., gray white, dotted and flecked purple; F., flecked purple on a white ground; styles speckled with brown purple. Any Soil. Seedling stock,35; old .75

Belamcanda Chinensis (Blackberry Iris)

Beautiful orange color, spotted red. Easy culture in sandy loam. These two are very pleasing when grown together. The ripe seed stock are very attractive.40 each ($4.00 doz.)

REGALIA-CYCLUS HYBRIDS

As the name indicates, Regalia and Oncocyclus cross. They inherit the hardy constitution and the two or three flowered stems from the Regalia (Karolkowi type). The rounded shaped flower and the curious veinings they get from the tender Oncocyclus (Susiana type), also the cushion or scattered beards.

They have proved entirely hardy with me. I plant them in raised beds, so that after a rain the soil will be dry in a short time, in full sun. Soil loose, coarse, with lime fertilize, with nitrate. I mulch the beds in winter with leaves.

In ten years I have not lost a single plant, though subject to strong sub-zero weather.

They begin blooming about the first week in May and continue about three weeks and further. They never sulk—always sure to bloom. The average height is about 15 inches. A full list of varieties will be found in my general catalogue. All varieties, $1.00 each.

IRIDACEAE

Moraea Iridioides50 (larger, .75)
-------------------------	-------------------

NATAL IRIS

This is a beautiful South African iris-like plant, closely related to the iris. Pure white petals three inches across; orange, hammer-shaped blotch on the falls. Styles are blue. Not hardy. Must be wintered in the house. Three plants to an 8-inch pos is about right.

The blooming stock must never be cut off, as the flowers are produced on the same stock indefinitely. The first time the stock will have a single flower. One old stock last year produced 16 flowers. Do not allow it to seed, as it does freely. Blooms many times during the year.

Sisyrinchium Striatum

A blue-eyed grass from Chile with creamy yellow flowers 1.25

Sisyrinchium Mucronatum

Our native Michigan blue-eyed grass.
Attractive member of the iris family.
Grows in most situations .30 each (3.00 doz.)

JUNO IRIS

While I grow successfully all of the Junos, the increase is negligible, so that I am not able to offer them for sale.
